

Dear San Francisco AIDS Foundation Hiring Team,

I'm excited to apply for the Email and Web Developer contract opportunity with the San Francisco AIDS Foundation. This role feels like a strong fit for the kind of work I do now and the kind of mission-driven organization I'd be proud to support.

In my current role at a nonprofit-focused digital agency, I build responsive HTML emails, help manage and update websites, support WordPress content, and QA digital campaigns before they go out the door. I work closely with designers, strategists, and project managers to turn campaign needs into reliable, accessible email and web experiences.

What draws me to this opportunity is the chance to use my technical skills in support of work that has a real impact on people and communities. I care about clear, thoughtful digital communication, especially when it helps connect people to resources, support, and services.

I'm comfortable working in fast-moving production environments and stepping into projects where accuracy, communication, and follow-through matter. My background includes email development, website management, WordPress updates, HTML/CSS, QA/testing, and troubleshooting across email and web platforms.

I'm currently available to support 20–30 hours per week through the summer and would welcome the opportunity to talk about how I could help support the Foundation's email and web needs.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Best regards,
Daniel Bellfield
<https://daniel-bellfield.com/>